You should read the Dolphin forums more often. There are tons of bugs with many games but this is not the place to get the devs to fix your favorite game. Game specific bugs do not belong here.

You're still talking about a very specific bug in a very specific part in ONE game. This area is for emulator defects that are seen in many games that can be fixed to help performance. This is one crappy games problems and there are many small parts of many games that need help, this is not the section for that.

Rockman, sadly I totally have to agree to tommy...@hotmail.com, because I told him the same just some issues before. ;)
Game issues should only be posted in some special cases, like one conflict is in many games or a error message pops up in multiple different games.
A SVN Version can brake a game more than easy so most of the time the issue will be closed and it won't help ector and co.

I already posted at the forum about game specific issues.

Why do you "SADLY" agree with me? As if you are upset you have to be on my side in this. :)

No, I know Rockman for a long time already and I'm mostly on his side, but this time, he's wrong, so I have to agree you... without the sadly! ;) But back to Issue... just waiting till it get closed and sent to game issues.

I guess he has finally seen the light, and was only capable of believing a post posted by someone he knows. He does not seem to be very bright and can never admit he just does not understand very much and is not willing to admit that he was wrong, ever!
